Recruit Lifestyle Co.,Ltd.

The free POS cash register app AirREGI now supports 134 countries and regions Starting off with an Android English version release

Recruit Lifestyle Co., Ltd. (head office: Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo; President and Representative Director: Yoshihiro Kitamura; hereinafter "Recruit Lifestyle") will release an English version of the POS cash register app AirREGI for free, which it will launch on Tuesday, January 6, 2015. Support will first be provided for the Android Tablet version, and the application will be available for download from Google Play in 134 countries and regions (*).

Overview of the AirREGI English version

Functions of the AirREGI English version will initially be limited to simplified POS cash register app functions, and it will be released as a separate app from the current AirREGI, allowing customization based on the business practices of each country. In consideration of factors including the global penetration rate, an Android tablet version will first be released and made available for download from Google Play in 134 countries and regions (*as of January 6, 2015).

Initially, the app will be a simple and POS cash register app with an emphasis on offline usability in areas with less developed telecommunications environments, and in the future, efforts will be made so that the app is used by even more people through functions such as credit card payment, linkage with accounting software, reservation and customer management, inventory management; support for various operating systems and devices; and support for languages other than English.

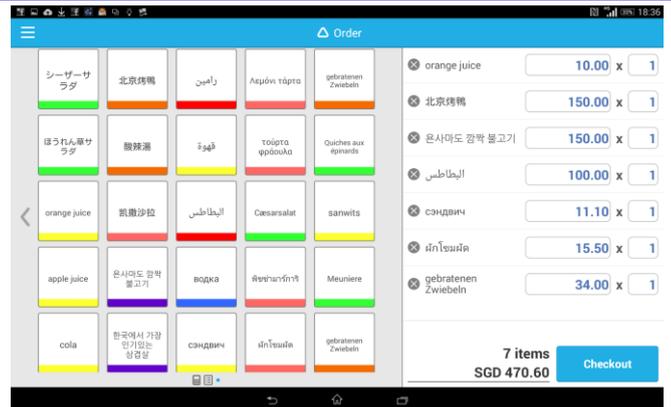

-Unique features of the English version

- Offline operation is possible, even in areas without telecommunications.
- Support provided for decimal points and the currencies of each country.
- Customizable to support the tax system of each country, including consumption taxes. Multiple taxes and rounding down are also supported.

What is AirREGI?

AirREGI is a free POS cash register app for conducting the cash register functions required for the retail industry, restaurant industry, and each service industry on a smartphone or tablet. Service provision commenced on November 19, 2013, and the number of accounts using AirREGI exceeded 100,000 in one year. AirREGI can be used by simply installing a free app on a smartphone or tablet, making the simple introduction of a POS cash register possible. The use of this app can greatly reduce the initial costs required for various events.

In Japan, support is being provided to store customers through partnerships with services operated by Recruit Lifestyle including the gourmet coupon information site Hot Pepper and the Recruit Point point app Air Wallet, while support is being provided for cost reductions and workload reductions by stores through partnerships with the mobile payment service Square (<https://squareup.com/jp>) and the completely automatic cloud accounting service freee (<http://www.freee.co.jp>).

There are plans to continue to introduce even more convenient features in the future.
